Dear Aline:

We have talked to one another on the phone this past week about N.A.G.. Today, I decided to write you a short note to rave at great length about this product of yours (Quest's). From July, 1992, until the second week of January, 1993, I was in a great deal of pain, with severe tenosynovitis. My doctor sent me for therapy; warning me that my particular tendinitis was a form named after a French man, and that it seldom healed without surgery.

The therapist gave up after 7 sessions, telling me there was nothing more she could do for me. The pain was very severe. I wore a splint on my right arm, and my wrist and hand were useless. To wash my hair, do up buttons, etc., was agonizing. The muscles in my upper arm and shoulder were affected. THEN, I finally had the intelligence to read about Quest's N.A.G. After one bottle of the N.A.G. 1000 mg, movements in my hand and wrist did not cause me pain and now after the second bottle, the swelling has gone in my wrist, the pain in my upper arm is nearly gone and I have FULL use of my right hand again.

Thank you Quest.
